

NEED AN AGENT? LOOKING FOR A PUBLISHER?

Maybe Killer Nashville can help.

Killer Nashville 2007 (<http://www.KillerNashville.com>) has made arrangements with New York's Maria Carvainis Agency's Donna Bagdasarian and Oceanview Publishing's editor Maryglenn McCombs to accept pitches from registered authors during Killer Nashville 2007, August 17-19, 2007.

Both agent and editor are actively seeking new authors.

The pitch sessions are a free add-on to Killer Nashville 2007 attendees and are on a first-registered, first-served basis. Pitch times are limited. Signing up for Killer Nashville or the pitch sessions after all times have been taken does not guarantee any new pitch times will be added. Register early to ensure you get a spot.

To sign up for a pitch time at no additional cost, or to read agent/editor bios see <http://www.killernashville.com/Content2007/agentedsignup2007.htm>.

To register for Killer Nashville 2007 visit <http://www.killernashville.com/Content2007/registration2007.htm>.

To see all the offerings for Killer Nashville 2007, visit <http://www.killernashville.com/Content2007/scheduleofferingskn2007.htm>.

For general information: <http://www.killernashville.com/>

If you can't find what you are looking for on the site, just ask (contact@killernashville.com or 615-599-4032).

We look forward to seeing you at Killer Nashville 2007 AND hearing about your success stories.

Note: Assignment times are given in the order Killer Nashville registration is received, not the time in which the agent/editor pitch request is received. Those already registered for Killer Nashville will be given priority over any new registrations on a first-registered, first-served basis.

Register early to guarantee your opportunity to pitch one-on-one to an agent or editor.